

Flashing Light fire alarm system for hotels

For the safety of deaf and hard-of-hearing visitors or residents.

To ensure the guest rooms safety to all your clients, standard fire alarms should be completed by a specific system adapted to deaf or hard-of-hearing persons.

10% of the population is impacted by hearing loss at various degrees. Although this disability is not visible, it remains a key safety consideration for the hotel industry.

Deaf and hard-of-hearing individuals are at risk of not being alerted by standard fire alarms. While sleeping, they may not notice the activation of the standard red lights' fire alarm system.

Accessens has developed an innovative, yet simple, white flashlights case in order to address this major safety concern.

A bright idea easy to implement

Management and installation flexibility

Wireless alarm cases can be installed in any rooms depending on the needs and client requirements.

No hardware installation required

The initial installation is performed by our Accessens technicians without impacting your business activity.

Connectivity

Our wireless flashlights system is easily connected to your primary fire alarm system.

Simplicity

The wireless alarm cases are being monitored centrally and real-time using a dedicated software.

Share it with your guests...

Hearing impairment is invisible.

We have developed specific signage and logos to be featured on your website or at the front desk to highlight the availability of our solution to people in need.

Accessens, is committed to accessibility

We have invested several years of research to develop this innovative solution to complement the existing fire alarm systems and make them accessible to all.

Our solution has been developed together with people with hearing loss, providing an answer to their safety need that wasn't addressed properly.

Accessens guide you all the way through in order to make your property safe for deaf and hard-of-hearing guests.
